TOP SECRET AND PROHIBITED

Office of Allied Naval Commander-in-Chief, Amphibious Force, U.S. Navy, London, D.S.I. 16th May, 1944.

My dear Prime Minister,

I did not have a further opportunity yesterday to discuss the plan you asked me to make, so I thought it advisable to give you an outline of it by letter.

Briefly the plan is that you should embark in H.M.S. "Belfast", Flagship of Rear-Admiral F. D. Rydman, in Plymouth Bay in the late afternoon of D-1, the ship being called in on her passage from the Clyde for the purpose, and rejoining her squadron at full speed.

I consider that nothing smaller than a cruiser is suitable for you during the night and the approach. She is one of the landing ships attached to the Centre British Force. Next day, it should be possible to transfer you to a destroyer which has completed her bombardment and which is due to return to England to re-armament. You could make a short tour of the beaches, with due regard to the unseized mine areas, before returning in her.

I shall not make any detailed arrangements until I know that the above arrangements are satisfactory to you. You told me not to mention this plan to the first one Lord and I have not done so, but you will appreciate that, as Supreme Commander, it was essential that General Eisenhower should know of what was in the air, and I must tell you that he is very averse to your going. You mean so much to the Nation at this

Dedication Speech

May 28, 1955

This is a day to honor our country's fallen heroes and, as long last, the day we dedicate this memorial to them in their families.

So many have given so much to make this day possible. To us many, I must say thank you for your contribution to this memorial for without you, it would not have happened. The work of our men is beyond any praise.

The memorial as you see it today will most likely have a different appearance in some years. You know that these people from various times. It is a message. Anne Carroll has given it life with her moving words, and the names of our heroes have given it its value. You, this memorial is a living thing even if it is made from granite and earth. Some come and some go, but the names of our heroes will speak to you. The world is a wonderful thing. It is where dreams are made and memories live.

There are no greater heroes than those whose names appear on this wall and are remembered across the great land of ours. The proud of faces and their sacrifices. They memory must live on in this country in its corners the land of the free. It is because their proud and sacrifice—our country lives—today as much as did the country and its principles. They say, "I love this country so much that I will give my life for it." They are the country's noble and brave. The nation of our country will only be free if they live in our hearts. Because, my friends, freedom is not free—someone has paid the price for others to be free. You know that the price of freedom has been the price of blood.

Today, people, we honor all those of our nation's fallen men and women who gave their lives. Their courage was our greatest strength, their sacrifice our greatest honor.

I would like to say to those who no longer have a voice of their own, thank you. Thank you for remembering. And God bless America, land that they love.

Thomas A. Lubold
President, U.S.M.F.
